

WEATHER for Kentucky
Thursday probably fair.

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1917.

VOL. 39—No. 41

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

There will be no declaration of war against Austria for the present.

On a call for 500,000 men, Kentucky would furnish 10 or 12 Regiments.

Single men will be called first and young men who don't want to go, would do well to marry while marrying is good.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, will appear in Louisville the night of April 24 in a song recital for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

Gov. Stanley has appointed Murray C. Shoun, a senior student in Centre College, who will graduate in June, as Colonel on his staff. Times are getting too serious for child's play in the war game, Governor.

Congress will face the task shortly of raising $3,000,000,000 to meet the initial expenses of United States participation in war. Incomes and excess profits probably will bear the burden. It is planned to lower the exemption on incomes of unmarried men to $1,000 and married men to $2,000 and double the rate.

Senator Lodge seems to have knocked some sense into the head of the pacifist named Bannwart when he knocked him down. Bannwart appeared in police court and said he had changed his mind after reading the President's message and was ready to urge support of the President. The breach of peace charge against him was dropped.

Owensboro is getting a great deal of unpleasant notoriety over a "jay walking" ordinance recently passed, which prohibits any pedestrian from crossing a street diagonally. It is strongly resented by the public generally and especially by the "jays" themselves, who are made the butt of endless jokes. Nearly 50 fines have been imposed in trying to enforce the obnoxious ordinance.

Uncle Sam wrote his check for $25,000,000 and took over the Danish islands Saturday. They are directly east of Porto Rico. With the normal transfer, the islands became known as the Virgin Islands of the United States, a designation chosen by the natives of the islands and adopted by the United Government. In all there are fifty islands, only three large enough to be of importance. St. Thomas is the most important and has one of the finest harbors in the West Indies. The harbor will be transformed into a strong naval base by the United States for the protection of the Panama Canal and for general military purposes. St. Croix and St. John are the other two large islands.

EWING WOOD

A Well Known Young Man Passed Away Tuesday.

Ewing Wood died at noon Tuesday at his home on West Seventh street, from a complication of diseases. He had been ill for some time and his death was not unexpected.

He was thirty-six years of age and is survived by his wife and two sons, Ben and Harris; his mother, Mrs. Helen Wood; two sisters, Mrs. Sallie Warfield and Mrs. Joe Day, and three brothers, Weston, George and Bowling Wood.

Burial took place Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock from the residence. Funeral services were held at the grave in Riverside cemetery by the Rev. T. L. Hulse, of the Methodist church.

FLEENOR-EWING.

Mr. C. M. Fleenor, the well known architect of Bowling Green, was married Tuesday to Miss Inez Ewing, of Smith's Grove. Mr. Fleenor formerly lived in this city.

The I. C. Railroad has been sued for $20,000 for the killing of Everett

TO CALL FIRST QUOTA BY LOT FROM ELIGIBLE LIST

Administration Plan to Be Submitted to Congress Calls For Army of 500,000.

500,000 IS NOT THE LIMIT Married Men and Others With Dependents Will Be Exempted.

Washington, April 4.—Administration plans for raising an army on the principle of universal liability to service, to be submitted to congress as soon as the pending war resolution is adopted, are based on selective conscription of young men to be summoned to the colors as rapidly as they can be trained and officered. A detailed scheme for the registration of eligibles has been worked out.

After married men, others with dependents, and those whose service is required in industries have been exempted, others within the age limits fixed will be examined physically, and those found fit will be selected possible by lot until the first 500,000 to be trained are secured.

It was made clear that the 500,000 is nowhere near the limit needed, and that it is thought more than 500,000 available will be found in the first classification. Others will be trained as rapidly as possible by officers of the regular army, national guard and officers reserve corps.

Maximum and minimum age limits for the first call are fixed in the administration plan but will not be made public until it is presented to congress. In recent discussions a minimum of 18 years and a maximum of 23 years have been mentioned.

WILL GRADUATE FIRST CLASS APRIL 20.

Preliminary military steps possible under existing laws were added today to those already taken. They include direction by Secretary Baker that the first class at the West Point military academy be graduated April 20, supplying 125 highly trained young officers.

At the navy department it was announced that steps have already been taken to secure close co-operation between the American fleet and those of the Entente allies when the necessary authority has been granted. The American embassy at London has been in close touch with the British admiralty.

Standardization of the munitions industry will be one of the first direct steps taken under direction of the national defense council. A continuous and adequate flow of weapons and ammunition of all kinds will be insured not only for the American forces but to the Entente armies.

Congress is expected to pass the resolution declaring a state of war to exist, not later than tomorrow. A short debate is expected and sentiment in both houses is almost unanimous. The following program is outlined:

IMPORTANT WAR PLANS.

"1. Enlistment by selective conscription of young men for a national army in addition to the regular establishment and national guard increments of 500,000 until enough have been trained to make certain the defeat of Germany.

"2. Organization of nation's commercial interests for economical and effective distribution of commodities among the civil population.

"3. Rapid provision of adequate means of combatting the submarine menace.

"4. The raising of a very large sum of money, as much as possible to be obtained by taxation, and the definite amount of the first budget not to be fixed until the exact needs of the army and navy and the entente allies are ascertained.

"5. Purchase of supplies and equipment of all kinds for the army under a provision of law which allows

COURT READY TO WIND UP

Bunch of Prisoners Convicted Left For Eddyville Yesterday.

Little of note is happening in Circuit Court this week, only the winding up of the docket preparatory to adjournment.

Yesterday Feland Clark and Otis Rhea left for Eddyville in charge of the five prisoners who had been sentenced to the penitentiary. Among the prisoners were Dock Bond, who had been sentenced to five years for cutting constable T. S. Winfree. INCREASED SHIPMENT

The Egg Circle Ship Three Hundred and Ninety Dozen This Week.

On Tuesday afternoon the Christian County Egg Circle made its third shipment of eggs. The ladies of the Circle are much pleased with the progress made, as the shipment shows an increase of from 210 dozen last week to 390 dozen, or 13 full crates, this week.

Mrs. G. H. Stowe, the president of the circle, requests that on the next shipping day the members bring their eggs on time. The hours for receiving the eggs will be from 1 o'clock to 3 o'clock, and all members are asked to provide themselves with egg crates so as to save both time and trouble and lessen the danger of breakage.

JOB BECOMES PERMANENT

Postmaster Jos. E. Moseley Now a Fixture In His Office.

UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

Next Postmaster Must Win In a Competitive Examination.

J. E. MOSELEY.

By reason of the executive order issued by President Wilson on Saturday last, all incumbent postmasters of the first, second and third classes were placed under civil service, and will so remain as long as their offices show up with good records.

The order automatically ends the term-system and incumbents hold office until vacancies are created by removal, death or resignation. Joseph E. Moseley, the present Hopkinsville postmaster, was appointed on the recommendation of Congressman A. G. Stanley near the close of his term in March 1915. The salary of the office is $2600.

Postmaster Moseley is in receipt of an official copy of the executive order signed by President Wilson, which reads as follows:

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

"Hereafter when a vacancy occurs in the position of postmaster of any office of the first or second or third class as the result of death, resignation, removal, or, on the recommendation of the first assistant postmaster general, approved by the postmaster general, to the effect that the efficiency or needs of the service require that a change shall be made, the postmaster general shall certify the fact to the civil-service commission, which shall forthwith hold an open competitive examination to test the fitness of applicants to fill such vacancy, and when such examination has been held and the papers in connection therewith have been rated, the said commission shall certify the result thereof to the postmaster general, who shall submit to the President the name of the highest qualified eligible for appointment to fill such vacancy, unless it is established that the character or residence of such applicant disqualifies him for appointment. No person who has passed his sixty-sixth birthday shall be given the examination herein provided for."

BURLESON'S STATEMENT.

Postmaster General Burleson made this statement about the order:

"Incumbent postmasters rendering good service and who continue to administer the affairs of their offices with ability, will not be disturbed in such offices by any recommendation made by the head of the department. It is due them, however, at this time to make it clear that hereafter supervisory officials of the department will be more exacting in the enforcement of those postal rules and regulations which make for increased efficiency, and postmasters will not only be expected to devote their time during office hours to a proper administration of their respective offices, but they will be required to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the various postal activities under their charge, and in the future to occupy such part of their time not properly given to administrative work to the performance

ALMOST BEG FOR PEACE

But Still Claim Not To Have Been Conquered.

GERMANY BACKS AUSTRIA

Lokal Anzeiger Says Enemies Will Be Offered Peace Worthy of All Parties.

London, April 4.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger's article concerning the proposal of the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister that a peace conference be held by the belligerents, as reproduced by the Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung of Essen, a copy of which has been received here, says:

"The standpoint taken by the Berlin and Vienna governments is shared also, it need hardly be said, by the governing circles of Sophia and Constantinople and will be shortly given emphasis by a visit to Germany of a highly placed personage from the dual monarchy.

"More unbroken and more firmly we stand on all fronts and more conscious do we feel of our power to persist to the end; better are we able with head erect to offer our enemies a peace worthy of all parties for the immense sacrifices they have made in this war.

"Should our enemies now show themselves unwilling to grasp this opportunity for preparing to end the bloodshed and for restoring peace to the people of Europe, they will act on their own responsibility. We are prepared to hold out. On that there is only one opinion in our quadruple alliance."

PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION

At Elks Lodge, With Pledge to President and Flag Unfurled.

The Hopkinsville lodge of Elks Monday night met in special session and enthusiastically adopted the following resolution, which was promptly wired to President Wilson:

"Distinctively an American order and standing for all things American, the Hopkinsville Elks lodge tenders to you our heartiest support, one country, one flag and one president. We pledge our faith in you, knowing the stars and stripes shall protect the honor, lives and property of Americans on land and sea. We believe a state of war with Germany actually exists and that congress should so declare."

Enthusiastic and patriotic speeches were made by Exalted Ruler Vego E. Barnes, Robt. A. Cook, Nat F. Dortch, Col. Jouett Henry, W. A. Hancock, S. J. Smith, C. R. Clark, Ira D. Smith, Chas. M. Meacham, Nick Stadelman, Joe S. Slaughter and others.

A committee was appointed to purchase and unfurl a national flag from the Elks Home building. The committee consists of W. M. Hancock, Nat F. Dortch and S. J. Smith.

COL. JOUETT HENRY And Regimental Staff Ordered To Louisville.

Col. Jouett Henry, commanding the Third regiment of Kentucky state guards, and his adjutant, Capt. Ben Winfree, received orders Tuesday night to report in Louisville at once for active duty. They left at midnight. Very little information has been given out. The first regiment "somewhere in the state." There was a report that the Third would be called out at once, but this was not

ORATORICAL CONTESTANT

John Hanbery Is Chosen To Represent Hopkinsville High School.

FROM 4 CONTESTANTS

Preliminary Contest At Methodist Church Monday Night.

Monday night at the new Methodist Church, the tenth preliminary oratorical contest was held. The High School Orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and the selections were highly appreciated by the audience, especially a cornet solo rendered by John Henderson. A large crowd was present and showed great interest in the speeches of the young orators. Each speaker covered himself with glory and it can be said without fear of contradiction that this contest was the best held here in recent years. The speakers were introduced in impressive fashion by Mr. James Higgins, a member of the senior class. After the last speaker had delivered his oration, the grades of the judges were collected and the averages were made out. The honor of representing the High School at Paducah in the Western Kentucky Oratorical Contest fell on Mr. Hanbery, whose subject was, "The Call Of America." Mr. Hanbery is a member of this year's senior class and his class mates are proud of him. He delivered his speech in a forceful and impressive fashion. He has a very pleasing voice and his speech is such that it will hold the attention of any audience.

The contest will be held on the fourth of May and already preparations are being made for a large delegation to accompany Mr. Hanbery to that city. The High School feels that Hopkinsville has a speaker who can hold his own with anybody that the other schools of this section of the state can send against him. This year the contest will have a new feature, in that there will be two contests, one for boys and one for girls. The young lady selected to represent the school this year is Miss Flora Rawls and since this is the first year that there has been a chance for one school to win two medals at one time the Hopkinsville High school will do its utmost to have that unique honor. Miss Rawls was the only contestant among the girls and so she did not deliver her address at the church, but sometime in the near future she will give her oration in the High School chapel so that the people of the town can have the opportunity of hearing the speech that we hope will be better than that delivered by any other girl in Western Kentucky this year.

Following were the subjects and speakers:

Oration, "The New South"..... Henry Abernathy.
Oration, "Dreams"..... Wallace Henderson.
Oration, "The Call Of America"..... John Hanbery.
Oration, "True Patriotism"..... Ben King Harned.
The judges were Rev. G. C. Abbott, Rev. F. F. Walters and Lieut. A. H. Clark.

THURSDAY, APRIL 5

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce
WILLIAM R. HOWELL,
of Christian county, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate from the District composed of Christian and Hopkins counties. Subject to the August primary.

We don't have to be neutral any longer. Be patriotic Americans.

Senator Lodge knocked down a pacifist named Bannwart, who called him a coward, in the Senate cor'dor Monday.

Grace Cunard, Mary Pickford and Alice Joyce are all Mrs. Moore, when off the stage. Grace is now honey-moonning with Joe Moore in San Francisco.

The British have now reached Gaza,
in Palestine, the city where Samson carried away the gates of the city on his shoulders, as told in the sixteenth chapter of Judges.

With 429 of the 433 living members elected to the House present, one Democrat and one Republican having died, and 3 Republicans and 1
Democrat being absent, Speaker
Clark received 217 votes, 213 Democrats and 4 Independents, and Mann, Republican, received 205 votes and there were 6 scattering votes.

All of the government's 500,000 civilian employees, including postmasters, as well as state and municipal officers everywhere, are called upon to take part in a nation-wide spy hunt. The season will be open till the war ends.
Cognizance is to be taken of all unpatriotic language, or criticisms of the government. One of the first jobs of the navy will be to see after the See Alder.

Representative Jeanette Rankin, of Montana, the first woman member of congress, took her seat in the house Monday. Her entrance was signalized by uproarious applause. Every member on the floor and everybody in the galleries rose as she walked down the hall with Representative Adams, of Montana. She carried one of a score of bouquets which had come to her office. She wore no hat and was attired in dark blue. Members rushed from all parts of the hall and congratulated her.

"With a profound sense of the solemn and even tragical character of the step I am taking and of the grave responsibilities which it involves, but in unhesitating obedience to what I deem my constitutional duty, I advise that the congress declare the recent course of the imperial German government to be in fact nothing less than war against the government and people of this United States; that it formally accept the status of belligerent which has thus been thrust upon it, and that it take immediate steps not only to put the country in a more thorough state of defense, but also to exert all its power and employ all its resources to bring the government of the German empire to terms and end the war."—President Woodrow Wilson.

HOW SEDALIA GOT ITS NAME

Gen. George R. Smith Gave the Town
Its Pleasing Cognomen in Honor of His Young Daughter.

The city of Sedalia was both founded and named by Gen. George R.
Smith, who was a distinguished citizen of Missouri during the years of the Civil war and the periods immediately before and after that struggle. He was a Virginian by birth and a Kentuckian by upbringing; as a young man he came to Missouri and settled at Georgetown, which is three miles north of the present city of Sedalia. He was prominent both in politics and business and was instrumental in the building of the Missouri Pacific railway from St. Louis to Kansas City during the '50s of the last century.
He could not induce his fellow townsmen to make the necessary effort to have the railway pass through Georgetown, and, foreseeing that that would condemn the village to decay, he bought a large tract of land beside the railway tracks and laid out a townsite there, from which in course of time has grown the flourishing city of Sedalia.

When it came to furnishing a name for the new settlement, General Smith determined to christen it Sedville, in honor of his younger daughter Sarah, whose pet name in the family circle was "Sed." One of his friends, Josiah Dent of St. Louis suggested that "ville" was a commonplace termination, and that Sedalia would be a more beautiful and unusual name. General Smith approved of the suggestion, and Sedalia came officially into being when he and his family, the first inhabitants of the new town, moved thither in 1859.—Youth's Companion.

WHERE SAND IS MONARCH

Majesty of the Desert Must Be Seen Before Its Savage Beauty Can Be Appreciated.

The desert whispered to itself before man ever trod it, but now it takes his accent, for beneath a leaning sign-post at the end of an old worn track lie the bleaching bones of a horse and far along on the self-same trail is an empty whisky bottle. Poor weapon with which to fight you, desert!

And you have your own forms of tiny insect life that burrow in your sands, and you are framed in wild and savage beauty, for where the winter snows of the Sierras are poured upon your glittering yellow bosom, the creeks that carry those clear icy waters are banked with cottonwoods and tall green grasses, while on your other side lie other mountains, stern and cold and dead, that hold the treasures of a thousand cities within their gloomy canyons. The tiny holes and puny tracks that man has made upon those mighty ridges are but as ants' work in a dusty road, and in the space of one man's little life the monuments to human evolution, of brain and high endeavor, will all be gently, surely wiped away. This is not done by you in savage anger, but slowly and inexorably, yet surely as the drifting of your sands—and yet not quite.
There is one trivial thing outlasts man's nobler monuments; a thing of interest to the burro's eye, a keen reminder of some vanished camp, a symbol of man's economic art, perchance the savior of some desert wanderer's life—an old tomato can!—Exchange.

Dog Leather for Shoes.

The streets of Armavir, in the south of Russia, are as much the home of numerous stray dogs as was Constantinople only a few years ago. These dogs, as in the Turkish capital, play the part of sanitary scavengers when the town council forgets its functions.
But the growing need of leather stimulated an official of Armavir to the suggestion that the hides of dogs could be utilized in the making of shoes for the poor pupils in the schools. The plan was eagerly accepted.

More than 800 stray dogs were caught, and already most of the skins have been tanned at a factory in Volovodin. It has been estimated that it costs about 50 cents to tan each skin, from which five or six tops for boots can be cut.

The leather is being used without dyeing, so that the shoes are a bright yellow in color. The Armavir council has thus provided at least 3,000 school children with cheap footwear.

"Nobody Loves a Fat Man."

"In Denver," says a member of the bar, "a large, fat man was suing a little, skeletonlike individual, who had a bad, hacking cough.

"The case had been given to the jury, which had been out half an hour.
On the evidence and the instructions the big man had won the case. The jury was called and filed out into the courtroom.

"Have you reached a verdict?" asked the judge.

"No, your honor," said the foreman.
"We only want to know which is the defendant and which is the plaintiff."

"The large man sitting over there is the plaintiff, and the small man here is the defendant," replied the judge.

"The jury filed back to the juryroom.
In a few minutes they signaled that they had reached a verdict. The judge received it and read:

"We, the jury, find for the man with consumption."

TERRIBLY SWOLLEN

Suffering Described As Torture
Relieved by Black-Draught.

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Abie, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs., in two weeks.

He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture.

I sent and bought Theodor's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Theodor's Black-Draught."

to keep fit, ready for the day's work.

Joke on Grandfather.

Seven-year-old Willie sat next to his grandfather at the dinner table and handed him a note from the principal of the public school requesting the attendance of the grandfather at a meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' association. The old gentleman, who is fond of a joke, pretended to read as follows, "Dear Sir: Your crop-eared, bandy-legged, sniffling-nose boy needs spanking. There are no shingles in this school sufficiently heavy for the purpose. Will you kindly take him into the woodshed and administer a much-needed correction?" Everybody at the table laughed except the youngster. With a perfectly grave face he said, "Oh, grandfather, I should not have thought that you would preserve all these years a note that was written to your father when you was a boy."

MORE USES OF LEFT OVERS.

If a cereal, boiled rice or cornmeal mush or macaroni, any one or a combination of two are left over, line a buttered bowl with the mixture, fill with seasoned meat,

cover with a little cereal and steam half an hour, then turn out on a hot platter and serve

with any desired sauce or a gravy.
Any small bits of fowl may be finely minced and seasoned with onion, parsley, grated lemon rind or a nutmeg, chopped green pepper, all of these or season to taste. Put into shells made of mashed potato and brown in the oven.

A salad is a fine dish to prepare from left overs as fruit, vegetables, meat, fish or fowl can all be used in a salad. A few string beans, a little onion juice, corn, tomatoes or celery with a salad dressing will make a good combination. Any small amounts of cream may be used as cake filling for shortening for all kinds of hot breads and cakes as well as puddings and if a larger amount is at hand may be whipped into a small pat of butter which will be a most appetizing morsel, especially for an invalid.

Small bits of left-over bacon stirred into a hot breakfast cereal and put into a mold may be fried for breakfast the next morning.

If a little macaroni and cheese has been left over, butter a baking dish, add a layer of the macaroni and a sprinkling of chopped meat, a little onion and a bit of tomato if at hand, another layer of macaroni, add a little meat gravy or soup stock to moisten and bake until hot. Buttered crumbs on the top adds to the dish and bake until they are brown.

A saucer of baked beans is not enough to serve the family, but they may be added to a little stock or made into a bean soup. One nice method followed by one family when there are several small bits of different foods left over is to reheat and serve as they are, placing them on a tray, and each one takes that which pleases him best.

WAR! What Is It All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armor glistening just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia? Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions are being sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by some of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give to you

FREE—"Europe at War"

A big book and over 300 pages, size 10 x 7 inches, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, containing the dramatic history of the great events leading up to the present time; over 50 important and timely special articles by experts on the different phases of the conflict; hundreds of graphic pictures, portraits, photographs, diagrams, specially drawn war maps, illuminating statistical records, copies of official documents and diplomatic messages exchanged between the powers—a clear, vivid, accurate, permanent, interesting and valuable record—a record which once seen you will not willingly be without. Europe's past and present are here dramatically pictured and presented. Hundreds of illustrations graphically tell their own stories. More fascinating than any romance, here is a history so vivid, so dramatic, so stirring, so fascinating, so realistic, so wonderfully presented, so thrillingly told that it leaves an ineffable impression.

Your War News Clarified

It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the reason why of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos and the "Review of Reviews" will do it for you.

POSSIBLE ENDING OF WORLD

French Scientist Shows How It May Come Through Admission of Ocean to Interior.

A new kind of end of the world has been imagined by M. Louis Ra-bourdin, a French scientist. Some times it has been suggested that the world will gradually become cold, so that life will be frozen out. M. Ra-bourdin, however, thinks it possible that the earth might end in an incandescent blaze.

The earth's crust, he says, is very thin at the bottom of the sea, and should it give way in consequence of volcanic action, the earth might be consumed in flames.

"Suppose," he states, "that, following an extraordinary twisting movement, due to retreat of the central mass, a large mass of the sea-bottom should give way, and, falling suddenly, should let in the mass of the ocean's waters upon the incandescent interior matter. The water would be decomposed by the heat, the hydrogen would burn, and it would burn more as it had access to more oxygen.

"The conflagration would then gain in force, accompanied by electric phenomena, and the greater part of the earth's crust would probably be displaced. The earth, passing through a critical epoch and returning for the time being to its formative period, would again be nothing but a globe of fire."

A CLOSE MAN

"I don't believe in doing things by halves."

"Well, I've never known you to spend more than a quarter."

FELINE STOWAWAYS.

Cats as stowaways was the unpleasant experience of a captain of a steamer which recently reached Aberdeen from the United States. Shortly after leaving port he was made aware of the presence of his unwelcome passengers, and upon investigation discovered eleven cats of all shades and conditions. Black, white, gray and piebald cats of all ages, frisky young mothers and be-whiskered old tomcats, made up the crowd, and life on board the steamer was made miserable with their fighting and vocalizing. Since arriving in port, Captain Johnson has turned the crowd ashore several times, but has been unable to get rid of them. When ready for sea he intends to have a watchman at every line to prevent their getting aboard again. The officers of the steamer claim the animals did not use the regular gangway to come aboard, but came over the catheads.

NATURAL SOURCE.

"Where do these reports which they say influence the markets come from?"

"It is only natural to suppose they come from reporters."

NATURAL INTERPRETATION.

"Pop, do ships ever faint?"

"What a question, child. Of course not."

"But there's a story where it says the ship came to."

SAFER PLACE.

"Smith is dreadfully afraid of being hit by automobiles on the road."

"What does he do to avoid them?"

"He walks on the railroad ties."

THE OBJECTION.

Tenant—I wish you would keep the furnace hot.

Janitor—Then I'll have to keep it cooled.

AUTO SARCASM.

Motorist (signing his chauffeur's salary check)—Oh, I say, James, you wouldn't want to buy the car at a bargain, would you?

BOY STRICTLY "ON THE JOB"

Youth Knew the Rules, and for Brief Space Mr. Edison Was Barred From His Own Plant.

This amusing story of Mr. Edison is being told in New York. The great inventor unlocked the gate leading to the laboratory yard in the Edison plant in West Orange, N. J., one morning recently, and was walking toward his private library on the first floor when he was intercepted by a sixteen-year-old lad, who had just become attached to the laboratory office force.

"No strangers allowed in here," said the boy to the white-haired man. "It is a rule of the building that no one except employees can enter this building unless they have an appointment with Mr. Edison, and you can't see him, because he is at home."

"To whom do I go if I wish to make an appointment to see Mr. Edison?" asked the inventor.

The new boy summoned the secretary, named Meadowcroft, who was astonished to find the "stranger" Mr. Edison himself.

"I have come to take up the work left off by Mr. Edison. I want to know if you're not desirous of employing a man who is willing to work now and then," was the greeting of the inventor to his representative as they shook hands. He added:

"Meadowcroft, that boy you have here is all right. I hope he will continue to see that the rules of this laboratory are faithfully carried out."

AS TO FIGHTERS

Some fighters fight for fame,
Some fighters never fight at all
But get matches just the same.

BARREL GARDENS.

Many persons have no soil on their immediate land or lot in which gardens can be grown. Sand, cinders, stones, shale or different clays may be the preventing cause. If such is the case, secure a number of barrels, bore a few holes in the bottom for drainage and a few in the sides below the middle, for circulation of the air through the drainage material and lower portion of the soil. Fill the barrels one-fourth full of suitable drainage material, such as pebbles, small stones, charcoal, a few corn-cobs, and over this place the soil, which should be rich in plant foods, to within two or three inches of the top, so that when pouring water on the surface of the soil it will not be lost in overflow.

Lettuce, cabbage, tomatoes, melons, cucumbers and other vegetables will grow well in such a prepared bed if the earth is kept moist and the south side of the barrels are shaded with a board or two on very hot days.

Many barren or somewhat waste places can be made to produce handsomely by this simple method of home gardening.

WILLING.

"You said you'd go through fire and water for me."

COMPLETE.

New and Correct MILLINERY

FOR EASTER Fresh From Chicago

We have just returned from Chicago, where we made the most wonderful purchase of Fisk and Gage Hats especially for our Dress-Up Week and Easter displays. To say this collection of hats is exquisite puts it in very mild form for we now have the most beautiful pattern hats ever shown in our store.

They Are Now On Display

Don't wait until the eleventh hour to make your selection. We did not overlook the Childrens' and Misses Hats—dress-up, tailored and sport effects. Prices very moderate.

Dress-Up Week For the Men

A suit of clothes may not make the man, but it goes a long way in improving his appearance. It is one of the methods business men have of judging you at a glance. Select a suit that is built on stylish, but practical lines. In a new suit of clothes of business-like character, you will find the proper solution for successful business deals, and more of them. Oxfords, Tweeds, Cheviots, Cassimeres, Serges, Worsted and other fine fabrics—in shades, mixtures and patterns that will be worn this spring. $12.50, $15.00, $17.50, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00.

If we happen not to have just what you want in stock we gladly take your measures and have your suit made to order by best tailors in America.

Handsome Footwear

These are the styles that will lead in the promenade on Easter Sunday—with no "after effects."

The continued vogue of the short skirt make the shoes a conspicuously important part of the Easter costume.

Shoe manufacturers have answered the garment authorities by producing the handsomest styles in footwear that have "ever" been shown. This in spite of the leather market. All that's fashionable is here—Patent leathers, Gunmetal, Dull Kid and the smart colored kid skins.

Usually the Easter promenade has its "after effects." The walk makes quite an impression on the feet. Not if you select your shoes here.

ATTENTION TO FARMERS

Kentucky State Fair Offers $700 In Prizes For Best Display of Agricultural Products.

Frankfort, Ky., April 4.—The Kentucky State Fair, believing that the purpose and intent of its organization was to benefit, foster, build up and advance the agricultural development and interest in this State, will offer this year prizes totalling seven hundred ($700.00) dollars, for the best display of agricultural products, including grains, hay, feeds, forages, straw, tobacco, hemp, vegetables, fruits, (fresh, canned and preserved), honey, syrups, sugars, cured meats, poultry products, dairy products, and all other agricultural products, which may be produced in any county in Kentucky during the year 1917.

Prizes will be divided as follows:
$250.00 to the county winning first prize.

$150.00 to the county winning second prize.

$100.00 to the county winning third prize.

The county winning first prize will also receive a sterling silver championship cup costing $100.00.

While another $100.00 is set apart to be divided as follows: $50.00 to the first, $30.00 to the second, and $20.00 to the third, to be given to the representatives of the respecting winning counties working up the exhibits.

The awards will be made by three (3) disinterested, competent judges, and the considerations governing the awards will be quality and quantity of exhibits, and taste displayed in the arrangement of the exhibition of same.

All products for this exhibit must be started to the Kentucky State Fair, either in wagon or by train, and not later than Wednesday, September 5, 1917, to be arranged and ready for the judging at noon of Saturday, September 8th. No exhibit, or any portion of an exhibit, not started to the Kentucky State Fair by Wednesday, September 5th, will be considered in the judging of the same. This should enable all interior counties, or counties from a remote distance from the Kentucky State Fair grounds to compete on the same terms, conditions and footing as those counties lying nearer to the Kentucky State Fair grounds. If necessary, the Member in Charge may require an affidavit setting forth the date of cutting, removing or starting of any products exhibited in this class to the Kentucky State Fair.

As a suggestion—I advise any one in any county, who contemplates his county being represented in this contest, to insist on several farmers in each section of the county to prepare and grow the same products for this special exhibition. In other words, say six farmers grow potatoes (both Irish and sweet), six farmers grow hay, six grow grain, and so on until arrangements have been made for the growing of all kinds of products for this wonderful display.

Full particulars will appear in catalogue, which will be issued about July 1, 1917, or upon application to Matt S. Cohen, Commissioner of Agriculture, Frankfort, Kentucky.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THE ATHENAEUM.

The program for the Athenaeum consists of two papers:

The reports of the May banquet preparations will be received and the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Republic Of Germany.

London, April 4.—There were stormy scenes in the Reichstag Friday, according to Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent, when socialist deputies foreshadowed the establishment of a republic and demanded that the Reichstag have larger powers in foreign policy.

Among those who spoke George Ledebour, socialist democratic leader, is quoted as saying:

"History is now marching in seven league boots. The German people indeed show wonderful patience. The Reichstag must have the right to a voice in making alliances, peace treaties, and declaring war. The imperial chancellor must be dismissed when the Reichstag demands." Shouts of "high treason" interrupted his speech. He also said: "We regard a republic as the coming inevitable development in Germany."

Turks Heavy Losers.

Andrew Bonar Law, member of the British War Council, stated in the House of Commons that the total casualties suffered by the Turks in the battle of Gaza, in Palestine, were 8,000. The total number of British killed, he added, was less than 400.

AN UNSENT LETTER

By SUSAN E. CLAGETT.

Jim Chapman started at the front door slammed, then he muttered in exasperation:

"To think I should have come to this from a little touch of fever! Nerves! I thought I had no nerves."

As a matter of fact, it had been a severe attack of typhoid, with so lingering a convalescence that his physician ordered him to return to the empty old house in New England that had been his boyhood home, if he wished to regain his strength.

To the last he had protested, but without avail, and now he had been in the New England village for a week, literally confined to the house, as he had broken his ankle upon his own doorstep.

Seated in his sitting room he looked helplessly around as doors and window blinds banged.

"Where in the devil is William? That fellow is never where he's wanted. I'll—"

"Will I answer?" a pleasant voice asked, and without waiting for a reply a blue-gowned figure crossed the room, hastily secured the blinds and closed the windows.

"I saw William ahead of me as I was blown through your front door. He had something in his arms that was giving him trouble. Here he is, Good gracious!"

Jim turned his head as his man came into the room carrying a kicking, squirming bundle, which he put hastily down.

"Sure, Mr. Jim, I hopes you'll never send me again for such a little tiger cat."

"I ain't no tiger cat," came with a suppressed sob from the small being on the hearth rug.

Jim looked at the child with curious resentment, but Miss Hill, who had been listening in undisguised amazement, came forward. "Of course not, dear. Jim and William were just trying to be funny." As she talked she had removed the child's wraps and now lifted her to her lap.

"Oh! I want my daddy. I want my daddy! He didn't call me 'tiger cat,'" and the child burrowed her head in the lace at Miss Hill's throat.

The two grown-ups looked at each other in silence as she sobbed herself into a heavy sleep. Then only did Kate Hill speak.

"What is it all about, Jim?" He silently handed her a letter and she read:

"Dear Jim: When this reaches you I will have passed into the unknown country. Because of the closeness of our friendship I am sending you the delight of my heart. Her mother is dead, and she has not a relative in the world. I leave a little property that is well invested, sufficient for her needs. Am too tired now to write more. You'll TOM."

"Poor little wail!" she said softly. "I would take her home with me, but I am going away this afternoon. I can help you, however. My housekeeper's sister has lost her child. She needs a home and will suit you. I will send her over."

"Thank you. Did you say you are going away? The thought that I should find you when this confounded ankle lets me get about has been the one comfort I have had throughout this lonely week. We used to have some pleasant days together, and I hoped we might return to them. I will be your neighbor for many months, and the sooner we forget the years that lie between now and then the better."

"We will talk about it when I come back," she replied evasively. She stood beside him for an instant laughing down into his gloomy face. "Perhaps, Jim, I may not stay as long as I had intended," she said, and with these words she left the room.

To his surprise she returned within ten days; returned in a storm that broke in torrents of rain as she neared Jim Chapman's gate. As on that first day, she ran up the walk and into the house. Looking into the sitting room, she saw Jim move slowly toward the window. On the floor the child was gathering up stray leaves of what looked like a manuscript, and in her lap was a bundle of letters. Kate turned to Jim with a smile:

"It is to be hoped Mrs. Grundy has been driven to the back of her house by the storm, else my reputation may suffer. To be blown twice within a fortnight through your doorway, Jim, is certainly food for gossip."

"I want the pretty lady to read to me," a small voice interrupted. "Read this," she said persuasively, holding out a letter.

Kate picked the child up and took the letter from her. "Why, this is addressed to me," she exclaimed.

Jim gave a start and glanced toward the drawer of his library table. He turned to Kate in explanation.

"That letter was written years ago, and I have often wondered why I received no reply. Why it was not mailed I do not know, but chance has thrown it into your hands. Read it, and give me the answer to the question I then asked." He turned to the window, looking with unseeing eyes out into the storm.

She was silent so long that he at last turned to her.

Holding the child close, she looked at him with shining eyes. "I have been wishing I had received the letter when it was written, for we have lost five years of happiness."

LOCAL MERCHANT

A BENEFACITOR

In Need.

HONEST MEN GIVEN CREDIT.

He Would Rather Be Right Than President—The Local Retail Merchant is Without Question the Community's Most Prominent Factor. Aids Farmer by Buying From Him.

[Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.]

I would rather be right than president is the principle followed by many retail merchants.

There is no right without a parallel duty, no liberty without the supremacy of the law, no high destiny without earnest perseverance, no greatness without self denial.

As a dispenser of important services in any town none compares with the retail merchant.

Perhaps the first benefit of importance is the endless accommodations which he extends his customers. His books show that where misfortune, sickness or loss of occupation overtakes his customers he is frequently obliged to carry them for many months.

Honest Men Get Credit.

The man who has not established a reputation for unreliability or dishonesty is reasonably sure of securing credit for the asking. And the extension of credit is equivalent to making loans without interest. And who would ask or expect any such favor of any one but a merchant or a very close and dear friend?

The local town to be a desirable place to live in must have police and fire protection, it must have bridges, improved streets, water, sewers and good schools. To secure these necessary improvements and to maintain them taxes must be levied. The local merchant pays a large share of the taxes.

Among other things, the local merchant is continually forced to contribute to all manner of charitable enterprises, both public and private. He is the local benefactor, inasmuch as he is the employer of labor. Numerous young men and women find employment in his store, and as the result of his investment and efforts many dollars find their way to the pocket of the doctor, the dentist, the editor, the druggist and the banker, all of which contribute to the social and financial prosperity of the community.

Faith in the Community.
He aids the farmer by buying from him his products to the extent of his needs, thus increasing the profits of the farmer.

He has shown his faith in the community by investing his capital there; consequently his interests center there; upon him, in a measure, depends the social, religious, educational and commercial existence of the town, and he is ever willing to do his part.

All this being true, why is he not entitled to the same amount of consideration as that exacted by the farmer, the wage earner and the other factors of the community that are always crying for "fair treatment" and "the right to live?"

Destroying Local Markets.

All he asks is that which is rightfully his—the opportunity to display his goods and compare prices with those shown in the misrepresented "picture albums" of the catalogue houses before you send your money away from home to buy something of the same quality which he can sell just as cheaply as does the big city merchant price.

Take away from the community one of the most important elements of prosperity, the medium of exchange, and the effect is inevitable—a weakening of the organism. And that is precisely what the great mail order retail houses are doing. They are bleeding the local communities. They are destroying local markets, weakening local credits, reducing the volume of deposits in small local banks, starving out local business men who are consumers of farm products as well as dealers, driving to the large cities thousands of consumers who can no longer find employment in small towns, and the men who are aiding them in their work of destruction will soon pay the penalty in the shrinkage of the value of their property, as well as in the loss of their markets.

A Gigantic Monopoly.

That the managers of these gigantic enterprises understand what they are doing is amply demonstrated by a remark recently made by one of their number in Chicago. He said, "Give us a few more years and we will make every city outside of Chicago a town, every town a village, every village a hamlet, and every hamlet we will wipe off the face of the earth."

What will the customers of the mail order houses do then, poor things? They will have given aid and comfort to the enemy that has destroyed their prosperity. They will have assisted in building up a gigantic monopoly. Seduced by pretty picture books, they will have in their innocence starved out their own best customers. Deserted villages will then mark the places where prosperous communities formerly thrived, and the population of the country will be divided between the farms and the large cities. The prospect is not a pleasant one to contemplate.

Curing Leprosy.

Some weeks ago the Courant mentioned that a Cuban had asserted that he had discovered a cure for leprosy and had so far impressed the Havana authorities that a commission of physicians had been appointed to investigate the matter. It now appears a leper no further away than Pennsylvania is so much improved in health that he has been released from quarantine. It is asserted that while bacilli are found in nodules on his face, his blood shows no trace of them or of the disease, and the authorities of Wilkesbarre, which have been keeping him and his family in quarantine at an expense of $3,000 a year, have put an end to the outlay by removing the quarantine. It may be supposed that the man, Joseph Norman, will not be altogether popular at social gatherings for some time to come, but it is significant that his condition has so far improved that he is permitted to be at large.—Hartford Courant.

The Boomerang

By HI AKERS

(Copyright, 1917, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Annabel, dear I—I prefer to buy my own things—I—"

"Harry! After I thought I was giving you such a nice surprise—and—"

Here the pretty face of the three-months' bride buried itself in a handkerchief, and was the next instant transferred to the coat collar of the remorseful young husband, who after restoring peace and harmony, gave one rueful glance at the collection of misfit underwear, out-of-date neckties, rainbow-hued socks, and fled.

Annabel had really given her husband a surprise, but not the "nice" one she expected. She had developed a bad case of the bargain counter malady, and had brought home such delectably cheap things for her darling Harry, she believed he would be delighted at her economical foresight. But the underwear was two sizes too small, and the kind he never wore. He abhorred green socks, and that color in ties was frightfully unbecoming to him.

Mrs. Harte put away the offending purchases, and concluded Harry was just a bit out of humor.

The next time she struck a bargain counter of men's furnishings, she couldn't resist buying something more for Harry. This time she knew he would be pleased. But he wasn't. He gently but firmly tried to make her promise not to do it any more.

"I just believe if you had married Mamie Beck instead of me, you'd have liked what she bought for you," pouted Mrs. Annabel.

"Mamie Beck!" snorted Harte. "I never thought of marrying her!"

"Oh yes you did, and you wouldn't have found fault with any nice little thing she wanted to do for you!"

Whereat there had to be more overtures of reconciliation, and again Harte fled from the bargain display including terrible pink shirts with reversible cuffs, and wondered what could be done to reform Annabel.

He loved his affectionate little wife, and was unselfish enough to stand considerable discomfort rather than make her unhappy; but his salary was only a moderate one, and the waste of money in buying useless articles was something that must be seriously considered.

Once when he had remonstrated with her, she had said: "But I don't buy anything for myself, dear," and he had answered: "Well, I wish you would," she had taken it for his unselfishness instead of the sarcasm he had meant. So what was to be done? Annabel seemed to be devoid of a sense of humor, but she was so sweet and dear in her well-meant expenditure for him, and never extravagant for herself, he didn't know how to meet the situation.

On the arrival of the fourth bargain counter consignment Harte felt that the time had come for a decided stand. The result was a quarrel which grew to such alarming proportions that Annabel insisted he was still in love with Mamie Beck, and firmly declared her intention of getting a divorce.

Harte flung out of the house, non-plussed, angry, and thoroughly miserable. He felt he could not any longer stand his wife's unreasonable folly, he could not live with her—and he was forced to confess he could not live without her. He walked wildly, irresponsibly down the street.

All at once he found himself face to face with Mamie Beck. She noticed the white, set face, and though he made an effort to go on, she detained him.

"Harry, what is the matter?" she asked.

"Why, nothing," was the evasive answer.

"Yes there is. Can't I help you?"

The question was so full of good, wholesome sympathy it began to melt the barriers he had set up between them. He had not meant anyone should know; but the desire to be understood, when a soul is floundering in deep water, is often so strong as to sweep away the bars of discretion.

Harte let her know something of the reason for his unhappiness.

"Come home with me. Let us talk it over," she said.

The two walked on for several blocks and entered Mamie Beck's home together.

Meanwhile Annabel, the moment Harte had left the house, had felt a sudden pang of remorse, and determined to dry her eyes, rush out, and get something she knew Harry especially liked for dinner. She meant to have it all ready for him when he came back, and to try to make amends for what she had said. She dressed, and started for the shop to make her purchases. Thank heaven there was no bargain counter there! Turning a corner, she gave a start! There was her husband with Mamie Beck, the two walking slowly, in earnest conversation. They were on the opposite side of the street, and they did not see her. She found herself following them. It was not a fine thing to do, not even very decent or honorable. But was she not his wife? That seemed to her to excuse it all.

She saw them enter Mamie Beck's home. This then was the solution! He did care for this other woman! He was tired of her so soon! Not yet married five months, and it was all over, the happiness, the love upon which she had built such wonderful castles of delight!

She did not go to the shop. What was the use? He might not even come home to dinner. She went back, flung herself down, and wept and sobbed as never had she done before.

After a time she heard his latchkey in the door. She rose quickly and tried to bathe away the traces of her tears. She did not mean he should see how she had suffered, or that she had seen him with Mamie Beck.

She met her husband with an icy reserve that left him very little opportunity for attempts at reconciliation. The next morning, having thawed a little, he met her more than half way. But as fate or some other psychological factor would have it, that very day she again saw Harry with Mamie Beck. They stood outside of a shop, and oh horrors! she saw him hand her money. There was no mistaking it for Mamie opened her purse and put it in, and both laughed heartily as they parted.

That evening Harry met his wife more affectionately than ever. He had a nice little surprise for her, and he opened a parcel he had brought in. He proudly displayed a purple shirtwaist about two years out of date, a pair of cheap, yellow silk stockings several sizes too large, and a petticoat built for a miss of fourteen.

He tried to preserve a strictly neutral exterior as he noted the look of dismay with which Annabel surveyed the articles.

"I got them so cheap, dear, I couldn't resist buying them. I hope you like the things. I had an awful time getting them, there was such a mob of women. But you see I did think of you!"

"Harry Harte! You know I never wear purple!" cried Annabel.

"Oh, don't you?" he responded with carefully assumed innocent surprise.

"And these stockings! Do you think I wear a number nine shoe?"

"They are a trifle large, aren't they?"

"A man never knows about such things. Please don't buy anything more."

It was Harte's turn to put on the hurt air, which he did with all due elaboration. Annabel certainly was devoid of a sense of humor. Nevertheless about two days later he appeared before his astonished wife with a pair of oversized gloves, and a hat of the vintage of 1910, which he told Annabel he had bought for her for next to nothing.

This was the last straw. Annabel overflowed with indignation.

"I see it all!" she stormed. "You want to make a perfect fright of me so people will sympathize with you for being tied up to such a frump, and so you can get a divorce and marry Mamie Beck!"

Harte's face expressed utter despair, this time not all assumed. His trump card had failed.

"Well, I thought I was pleasing you," he said disconsolately. "I suppose if you had married Tom Bennett you'd have liked what he bought for you."

His retort was so nearly identical with her own on a previous occasion that suddenly a light seemed to break in on her.

Did he really care for her? But what about Mamie Beck, and what she had seen with her own eyes?

"Look here!" she cried. "You never bought such atrocious things as these! You couldn't have found them in a day's journey! You just got someone to do it."

"Yes, I did."

"Was it Mamie Beck?"

"Yes."

"And you went and told her everything!"

"Listen, dear! It was all accidental. We met on the street, she saw how miserable I looked, she drew it out of me, she only wanted us both to be happy again."

"Oh!"

The exclamation was dry and doubtful.

"Look here, Annabel! Everything she said and did was for—"

"For my good."

Something like that missing sense of humor began to twitch the corners of her mouth.

"Well—I guess she was right," said Annabel. "Ask her to dinner tomorrow. It's no more bargain counters for me, honey—if you'll swear off."

The compact was not signed in words, but something much more expressive.

What To Do When Baby Has The Croup

Pennsylvania Mother Advises Use of "External" Treatment
—VapoRub.

What to do when baby has the croup is a serious matter in every home. In the South the universal treatment is a good rub over the throat and chest with Vick's VapoRub Salve. The body warmth releases the ingredients in the form of vapors that, inhaled with each breath, quickly relieve the breathing. In addition, Vick's is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, relaxing the nervous tension and taking away the tightness and soreness.

Last winter Mrs. W. M. Rosenberger, 128 W. Broad St., Souderton, Pa., tried Vick's VapoRub for the first time, and writes—

"I have used Vick's VapoRub on my baby when he has had croup and colds in his throat and chest, and it has helped him wonderfully. I think it is the best thing of its kind I have ever used, and always want some in the house."

In addition to croup and colds, Vick's will be found useful in a hundred ways in the home as a salve—for burns, bruises, itchings, etc. Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00.

BAPTIST MEN GET TOGETHER

Speeches Made By Several Members and Good Meal
Enjoyed By 150.

The Get-together Meeting of the Baptist Church male membership Tuesday night was attended by about 150 men and boys, including a few members of other churches whose wives are Baptists. Tables were arranged in the Sunday School room and the guests were seated to a two-course dinner served by the ladies of the Church.

A speaking program followed with Chas. M. Meacham acting as presiding officer. Bailey Waller and C. E. Woodruff, delegates to the Laymen's Convention at Atlanta, were the principal speakers, their speeches being interesting reports of the work done at the convention. Geo. E. Gary, Pettus White and Dr. C. M. Thompson were the other speakers.

NO MORE FEES.

Tennessee has taken a step forward and abolished the fee system in paying officials. After Sept. 1, 1918, all officers will be paid in stated salaries and it is estimated that $200,000 will be saved to the State. Such a law in Kentucky would save at least $300,000 and still pay ample salaries. The fee system leads to all sorts of evils. Even murder cases have been compromised and reduced to a finable offense by officers who get hold of the fines. One advantage of a salary system is that an officer who neglects his business can have his salary stopped.

Commenting on this system, the Mayfield Messenger says: "Kentucky will never get out of debt and the counties and municipalities will never have any money on hand as long as the people are burdened by extravagant salaries and fees."
